This class will predominantly utilize Five in a Row Books 2 & 3 as the spine for the homeroom class although some supplementation may occur. The Five in a Row program is literature based and provides a beautiful introduction to good, classic literature. The homeroom class consists of story time and the story will open the door to coordinating activities in a range of subjects, such as: math, history, geography, social studies, and language arts. The Five in a Row story lessons will coordinate with the liturgical and calendar year when possible and those themes will spill into the other areas of study: science, art and music. The class will partake in simple, fun science experiments to help develop a love and curiosity for God’s creation. Students will be able to explore different art mediums throughout the weeks, so wear appropriate clothes! During Spanish class the students will learn and develop skills related to basic communication and vocabulary acquisition in Spanish. They will participate in a variety of activities practicing, understanding, and speaking Spanish including singing, coloring, playing games, and learning to work with partners. It will be a fun and accepting environment for learning a new language. Second graders will also play outside for recess (weather permitting) and have snack time. Different teachers will rotate into the homeroom class to teach the varying subjects and will be paid separately (see below).

Student Responsibilities and Expectations

Please bring a notebook, a nut-free snack, and water bottle to class. Be on time (to the best of the parents' ability) and notify the teachers in advance if a child won't be there or needs to be picked up early. We ask that children respect each other and choose kindness.

The Five in a Row program is literature based and provides a beautiful introduction to good, classic literature and encourages families to read the same book at home for five days in a row. This is not mandatory but reading the book in the days prior to class will deepen the children's understanding and love of literature and will supplement the other activities that they'll do in class. We encourage following along with the reading list in the syllabi that the teacher will send out this summer!
